2 x Artist Solos

Arts Project Australia presents two solo exhibitions by Kate Knight and Simon Paredes

The exhibition runs from 5 to 27 November at Collingwood Yards

Kate Knight has called her solo exhibition Kaleidoscope

Simon has called his exhibition Brillo

Kaleidoscope

Kate Knight Kate Knight is a painter, ceramicist and print-maker who has worked at the Arts Project Australia studio since 2008.

The artwork in her exhibition presents bright, multi-colour, irregular shapes that fill the page.

The shapes in her artwork are sometimes organic and look leaf-like, whilst others are geometric and have straight edges and sharp angles.

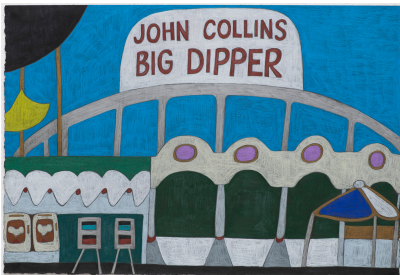

The use of different shapes and colours creates pattern and movement in the image, much like the optical effect of a kaleidoscope.

Brillo

Simon Paredes is an emerging artist working in coloured pencil on paper.

He enjoys drawing architecture, domestic objects, retro pop culture products, and people on small-format paper.

Simon's artworks in his exhibition explore pop culture product labelling and taxidermy birds.

The product series uses text and form to create simple images of retro products. Simon also uses this simple form to create his animals, but also uses their complicated scientific names, just like a museum display.
